RESEARCH EXPERIENCE

FEB 2021 - NOV 2021	Sociality and injuries in baboons University College London Investigate how sociality predicts incidence of injury and wound healing in chacma baboons, using social network analyses. Included three months of fieldwork in Namibia. SUPERVISION: Alecia. J. Carter.
SEPT 2020 - JAN 2021	Effects of predation risk on animal personality University of Groningen Design and implementation of a semi-natural experiment exploring how exposure to predation cues affects personality in three-spined sticklebacks. SUPERVISION: Franz. J. Weissing, Marion Nicolaus & Antonius Groothuis.
MAR 2020 - AUG 2020	Anopheles landscape genetics University of Montpellier Studied the eco-geographical determinants of hybridisation between two malaria vector species of the Anopheles gambiae complex, using SNP data. SUPERVISION: Michael Fontaine & Carlo Costantini.
SEP 2018 - DEC 2018	Epigenetics and bet-hedging University of Namur Examined how epigenetic mechanisms can underlie a bet-hedging evolutionary strategy in animals and bacteria (literature-based project). SUPERVISION: Frédéric Silvestre.
